Some temptations are impossible to resist, even for a bakery heir...

Ann Haldene is the most beautiful woman Gawain Redcake has ever seen. A gifted healer who soothes his battle-scarred body like never before, the widow's touch has a powerful effect on him. It's no wonder the rugged Redcake heir forgets his quest for a society bride during one passionate night in Ann's arms. But once he learns she is pregnant with his child, he searches for her, intent on giving her his name, if not his heart....

Ann is shocked by Gawain's proposal, mostly because he has not uttered a word of love. For the sake of their baby, she accepts, even knowing that Gawain dreamed of marrying to secure a title and all she has is a severed royal Indian bloodline. Now the new bride faces her greatest challenge: showing her husband that their union is more powerful than pedigree—and love is the ultimate reward....

Webcomic artist Josie Manheim never expected to reunite with her sinfully gorgeous high school ex on a blind date. But one look at him has her remembering their sexy exploits and wanting more. He's changed, though, darker and more mysterious than in the old days. Each encounter ratchets the intensity of their connection...and begs the question of who he's become.

Miguel Barrino, now an undercover FBI agent, has trailed a priceless piece of stolen art to his former home town. Can he keep his ex out of trouble and still heat things up with her under the covers? With criminals on the loose, falling in love could lead to more than hearts in danger.

WARNING: This book contains secrets, a small town, and sexytimes! Here's a snippet:

Chapter One

"She's Chicomecoatl," said Ona Meyer as she tapped a button on her computer. A photo of a tiny golden statuette flashed onto the screen. "A fertility goddess. Stolen from the Museo Nacional de Athropologia in Mexico City in April."

"That was six months ago. What's been happening since then?" Miguel Barrino's pulse began to race, his usual reaction to the start of a new case, as he shut the door of the conference room. An undercover agent, one of three shadow members of the FBI's Art Crime Team, he was rarely in the FBI's Los Angeles field office. Ona, one of ACT's twelve public members, was assigned here.

"That's not unusual. We do have a backlog," said Ona, an attractive redhead who looked a decade younger than her thirty-five years.

"Miguel's got a plane to catch, so let's be brief." The assistant director in charge adjusted his wire-rim glasses.

"The statuette's Aztec?" Miguel sat as the AD handed him a folder.

"Correct," the AD said.

"I'm packing my bags for where?" Miguel asked.

Ona smirked. She hit another button and the face of a pockmarked Hispanic man in his late twenties flashed on screen.

"You're going to Spruce Park in southwestern Washington state to look for this man, who is a suspect in the theft. I took the liberty of writing your undercover dossier for you to save time."

Miguel gritted his teeth. The little town wasn't anywhere he would have gone back to by choice. "I lived there during my last two years of high school."

"Exactly," the AD said. "You're going undercover as yourself, but as an unemployed mechanic looking for work. You should be able to track down this man easily enough if he's there."

Miguel nodded. "My sister thinks I'm a mechanic."

"This was taken in Chapultepec Park near the museum," Ona said, gesturing at the screen, where a grainy black and white image of the Hispanic man was frozen in the process of reaching out to someone or something. screen.
